

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

An ear and scruff protective cover used in the process of hair dyeing includes two ear covering portions and a neck covering portion. The two ear
5 covering portions are respectively connected with the upper left and right corner of the neck covering portion. The two ear covering portions are respectively covered on a person's left and right ear, while the neck covering portion is covered on a person's scruff and neck sides for 10 protection to prevent the person's ears and neck from contacting with hair dye and causing skin disease.